Interior Water Directing System

The Forever Foundation interior water directing system provides whole basement water management where no other method is 100% effective. The most common point of leakage in a basement is the floor seam. Due to the inherent imperfections in any concrete floor or foundation walls, outside hydrostatic pressure forces water through. Our innovative interior water directing system is installed right at the seam for maximum effectiveness. Water seeping through the wall or seam is caught by the waffle board and transferred beneath the slab to a drain tile. The drain flows to a sump for final evacuation. Our system is inconspicuous when installed. Choose Forever Foundation for all your foundation and basement needs.
